Navy Bomber Shatters Distance Record In Non-Stop Flight From Australia to Ohio

Long Trip Ends At Noon In Columbus

(Compiled From Wire Dispatches)

COLUMBUS—Setting a world's non-stop distance record from Perth, Australia, the Truculent Turtle landed at 12:22 p. m. today at the Columbus airport.

The big two engine patrol bomber flew approximately 11,237 miles in 55 hours and 18 minutes.

Capt. John Foster, commandant of the base here, said the crew members—Cmdr. Thomas C. Davies of Cleveland, O.; Cmdr. W. S. Reid, Washington, D. C; Lt Cmdr. R. H. Tabeling, Jacksonville, Fla., and Cmdr. E P. Rankin, Sapulpa, Okla.—would be given fatigue tests immediately.

AIRMEN FACE SERIES OF TESTS

"They'll get the Schenider test, a routine blood pressure and pulse rate test given to all navy personnel after physical exercise," he said

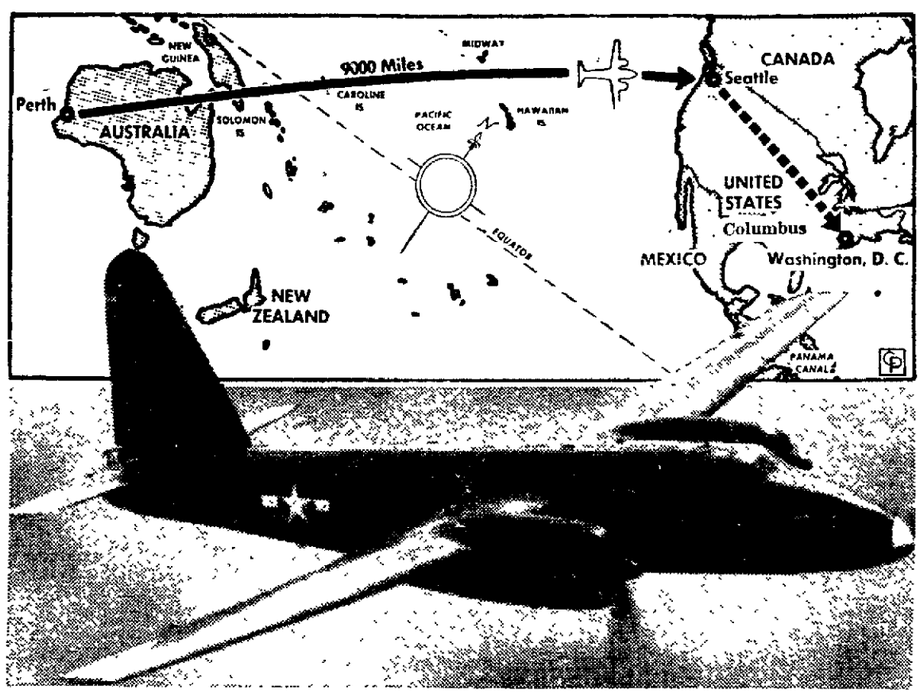
The navy had told Davies to attempt to fly to Washington and on to Bermuda if possible, but the plane struck bad weather on the trip inland from the coast where it set a non-stop record of 9,200 miles when it reached the Red Bluff range in California.

The ship's speed, which had been estimated at 200 miles per hour, apparently was slowed by the bad weather.

The Turtle broke the previous non-stop record established by an army B-29 last November when it flew 7,916 miles from Guam to Washington.

CAA officials estimated that it took the Turtle '44 hours to fly from Perth to the California coast

If the plane had flown to Washington non-stop it would have covered a distance of 11,700 miles The distance from Perth to Bermuda is 12,523 miles



HISTORY'S LONG FLIGHT: The "Truculent Turtle," a Navy Neptune patrol plane, established a new world's long distance flying record today when it reached the United States after a non-stop flight from Australia.

U. S. SEIZURE OF LIVESTOCK UNDER STUDY

Unprecedented Step Termed Growing Possibility By Anderson.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The worsening meat shortage brought an official threat of government seizure of all market-bound livestock.

That unprecedented step was described by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson as "a very real danger that day by day becomes more of a possibility."

Anderson's assertion to a group of New Mexico cattlemen coincided with his formal announcement through the agriculture department here that meat must remain on the government's list of scarce farm products.

At the same time Anderson erased from the list—and from price control—all canned fruits, juices, nectars and corn, along with fresh and frozen salmon, oat cereals and rum.

* * *

Hopes Dashed.

What lingering hopes the meat industry fight still have had that the way might be cleared for lifting OPA ceilings in a bid to farmers to speed their stock to market apparently were dashed by the announcement here.

And Anderson made the point more emphatic in his Albuquerque address yesterday by declaring that any new decontrol period would simply lead to "feast and then famine."

Anderson held out still another warning to the stockmen—that the long standing fight against importing Argentine beef into this country might be reopened by public demand

* * *

None Added to List.

Anderson's short supply list was the second monthly forecast he is required to give under terms of the new price control act No new items were added from the September table, which besides meat, included these other major commodities still classed as scarce

Wheat, corn, rye, rice, buckwheat flour, barley, grain sorghums, dry beans and peas, milk and butterfat, mohair, soybeans, cottonseed, flaxseed, peanut oil and meal, olive oil, most sugars and syrups, malt beverages, candy and confectionery, jams, jellies, preserves, fruit spreads, most canned fish and fish flakes, and soft drinks.

As items go off the list they automaticaly are removed from price control.

GOERING'S FIRST ON GALLOWS LIST

NUERNBERG—(AP)—The international war crimes tribunal today decreed death on the gallows for 12 leaders of the Adolf Hitler gang, sentenced seven to prison, and—with Russia dissenting—acquitted three defendants.

The court, after sentencing to death Hermann Goering, Joachim von Ribbentrop and 10 other Nazi henchmen, announced that Russia had protested against the tribunal's acquittal of Franz Von Papen, Hjalmar Schacht and Hans Fritsche. The Soviet judge, Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko, also protested that Rudolf Hess should have been hanged instead of receiving the life imprisonment sentence the court handed him, and objected to yesterday's acquittal of the general staff and high command.

Judges of Britain, the United States and France joined in the majority opinion, which now will be carried by the Allied control council, representing all four allies.

Rosenberg . . . death | Von Ribbentrop . . . death | Schacht . . . acquitted | Goering . . . death | Von Papen . . . acquitted | Hess . . . life

Legal officials of the American military government said that if any of the three Nazi leaders acquitted were returned to the U. S. zone of occupation they probably would be tried by Germans under the zone's denazification law.

The officials said because Schacht and Von Papen owned property in more than one zone it was conjectural to which they might be returned. Legal experts in Berlin expressed belief the Russians might get custody of Fritsche, whom they arrested in Berlin and delivered to Nuernberg for trial.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U. S. prosecutor, expressed regret that "the tribunal has felt constrained to acquit Schacht and Von Papen and to decline to declare the criminality of the general staff." He said in a formal statement that "the effect of these acquittals on the further prosecution of industrialists and militarists which have been planned will have to be studied from the text of the opinion."

The court acquitted three defendants.

Others sentenced to death were Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Alfred Rosenberg, Hans Frank, Wilhelm Frick, Julius Streicher, Fritz Sauckel, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, Arthur Seyss-Inquart and Martin Bormann (in Absentia).

Keitel . . . death | Kaltenbrunner . . . death | Streicher . . . death | Speer . . . 20 years | Raeder . . . life | Doenitz . . . 10 years

Rudolf Hess, third ranking German until his strange wartime flight to Scotland, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Also sentenced to life were Walther Funk and Grand Adm. Erich Raeder.

Those acquitted were Franz von Papen, the old gray diplomat who led intrigues in both world wars; Hjalmar Schacht, the German finance wizard; and Hans Fritsche, deputy propaganda minister for Paul Joseph Goebbels, a suicide.

Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz, who surrendered Germany and was fuehrer in the last few days of the war, received a ten year sentence.

Baldur von Schirach, Hitler youth leader, and Albert Speer, German munitions minister, both were sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Constantin von Neurath, former German foreign minister and later "protector of Bohemia and Moravia," was given 15 years.

The defendants have four days in which to appeal to the Allied control council, their court of last resort This council, representing the United States, Britain, Russia and France in the government of Germany, has authority over the executions, which are expected Oct 16 unless an appeal for clemency is granted, and there seemed little chance of that. All defense attorneys had announced they would appeal in the event of death sentences against their clients

Frank . . . death | Martin Bormann . . . death | Jodl . . . death | Funk . . . life | Schirach . . . 20 years | Fritzsche . . . acquitted

Goering and Ribbentrop were convicted on all four counts in the indictment against them, while Hess was convicted of two counts, conspiracy and crimes against the peace, and acquitted of the last two, war crimes against humanity.

Eight defendants were convicted on count one of the indictment—conspiracy to commit the other three acts charged—the only one common to all 22 defendants

They were, in addition to Goering, Hess and Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, Alfred Rosenberg, official Nazi philosopher; Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, former German naval commander; Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, chief of staff of the German army; and Constantin von Neurath, former foreign minister.

In addition to Goering and Ribbentrop, four others—Keitel, Rosenberg, Jodl and von Neurath—were convicted on all four counts in the indictment.

Goering's expression did not change as the tribunal judged him guilty. Hess did not even look up from his scribbling as the court read the verdict in his case.

Ribbentrop sagged in his seat as U. S. Justice Francis Biddle listed the crimes charged against him and found him guilty of all.

Twelve of the 16 defendants charged under the second count—crimes against the peace—were convicted. They were Goering, Hess, Ribbentrop, Keitel, Rosen-

PEAK REACHED IN VOTE RUSH

Extra Workers Help Handle Registrations.

The rush to beat the Oct. 7 deadline for registration of voters for the Nov. 5 election moved into high gear today.

Four extra workers aided the staff of the board of elections to handle the crowd

Yesterday alone, 175 registrations and transfers of names and addresses of Mansfield and Madison township residents were counted. The rush continued today

The awakening of residents to the need for registration comes on the heels of vigorous campaigns by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, political candidates, labor unions and other groups.

In order to handle the increase in registrations and transfers the board has extended its closing hours from 4 p. m. to 8 p. m each evening this week and has decided to remain open until 9 p. m on Monday, the last day for registration or transfer.

Last week registrations and transfers average approximately 85 per day. The peak of 90 came on Saturday a half day.

LEWIS ABSENT

UMW Slated to Hear Green at Convention.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—The United Mine Workers (AFL) opened their biennial convention today. John L Lewis was absent from the convention for the first time in 40 years. Lewis was at Washington convalescing from an appendectomy.

AFL President William Green, a one-time coal miner, was to address the afternoon session Green's appearance will be his first at a convention of his own union since 1936, when he appealed to Lewis and the miners to abandon plans for establishing the CIO as a rival to the AFL. The miners then heeded a cue from Lewis and thundered a repudiation of Green.

City Faces Dilemma In High Bids On Dam

City council tonight faces the problem of upping by $124,000 the price it is willing to pay for the Clear Fork dam or rejecting the low bid the city has received on the project and starting from scratch to negotiate for a dam-building contract

Lowest bid submitted for the contract was around $424,000. It was submitted by Roger J. Au, of Mansfield, one of four bidders

The city's estimate on what it should cost to build the dam was $299,130.

Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow said that it was up to council to determine whether to increase the proposed dam-building fund or reject the bids so far received.

Meanwhile, City Auditor Paul Kelley reports that so far $218 890 has been spent from the $800,000 Clear Fork fund.

If council accepts Au's bid and spends all of the money it has so far appropriated for the Clear Fork project, a $94,000 balance will be left in the Clear Fork fund

From this balance, however, the cost of clearing the reservoir area will have to be paid as well as the cost of building a water treatment plant.

Biggest part of the $218,890 so far spent from the Clear Fork fund has gone for land purchases and for the relocation of the Ohio Power company's lines in the reservoir area.

Approximately $171,000 was spent to purchase about two-thirds of the land needed for the reservoir; about $44,521 went for relocating the power lines.

Up for council's consideration tonight is an ordinance appropriating money to build the dam and authorizing the service-safety director to contract for its construction.

Also to be read is a letter from Paul G Snyder, of the National Electric company, asking that council consider installing more street lights in the south end of the city.

Snyder's letter recommends added lights "in view of the increasing number of recent attacks." His letter says that lights should be added particularly on Gibson avenue, between Marquis avenue and Main street. He describes Gibson "as dark as the darkest street in town."

DRIVER PERMITS SHOW BIG GAIN

16,058 Get Licenses Before Deadline, Club Reports.

Automobile driver registrations in Mansfield were headed for prewar figures today with 16,058 persons registered to drive, an increase of 2,443 over last year.

While the deadline for obtaining operators' permits was last midnight, scores of persons thronged the Richland County Auto club office today to get their licenses.

Although motorists can't legally drive now with their 1946 permits, they may obtain new licenses until April 1 without a driver's test, provided they can show their 1946 permits, Jack Berger, Auto Club secretary, said

Sale of new chauffeurs' licenses is lagging behind the 1946 figures, Berger said, largely because of a delay in obtaining photos required for applicants

Up to last night, 1,273 chauffeurs' permits had been issued as compared with 1,326 at the deadline last year.

READY TO PAY

$22,500 Settlement Offered in Lincoln Case.

CHICAGO —(AP)— A proposed settlement of $22,500 in a $55,000 damage suit resulting from an attack on nine-year-old Carol Williams of Joliet by James F Lincoln, jr., son of a Cleveland, O., industrialist, comes up for approval in Joliet probate court today.

Attorney Lloyd Heth of Chicago said the out-of-court settlement in the suit filed May 17 by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, required court approval because the girl was a minor.

Young Lincoln is serving a one to 14-year prison term following a plea of guilty to a charge to assault with intent to kill. He was accused of striking the girl with a hammer and firing at her with a rifle when she resisted his advances.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The governors of the multi-million dollar currency stabilization fund were reported today to have agreed to the United States contention that the world bank and not the fund should make currency stabilization loans. Mexican Police Bare Bold 'Double Killing' Plan of Auto Black Market

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Mexican police officials said today U. S automobile black marketeers were making a "double killing' by selling cars south of the border at fantastic prices and then reporting them stolen to collect insurance.

Major Robert G. Martinze, chief of police in the Mexican state of Chihuahua, said American insurance companies were the heavy losers in the new racket.

"They drive cars down into Mexico and sell them and then they return to the States and report the cars stolen." Martinez said. "They they collect the insurance in addition to having already gotten more for the car down there than they could under OPA in the States."

The 42-year-old major is attending the 33rd session of the FBI national academy for instruction in the latest methods of crime detection and prevention. He has been chief of state police for Chihuahua since 1944.

Martinez said the car racket was "very embarrassing to the police of my country." He said everything possible was being done to halt the racket.

An FBI official was high in his praise for the work the Chihuahua department has done since Martinez became chief. He said both the FBI and Martinez' force was benefitting through cooperative effort on their respective sides of the border.

Upon returning to Juarez, capital of Chihuahua, Martinez proposes to open a policy academy to train members of his force. He has 240 men under him and said "with this small force we quite effectively police 1,900,000 square kilometers of land." His state has large plains in the east and mountainous country in the west.

The logical turtle and the "Small Businessman"

Speaking from experience, the turtle said, "You've got to stick your neck out if you want to get any place".

And his kind of logic is what America thrives on . . . it makes so much sense to folks who like their independence.

Ben Franklin believed in it when he lit out for Philadelphia.

So did an ex-G.I. named Jones who started his own small business just yesterday . . . on a loan, but on his own.

What happens now is his business . . . (and everybody else's!)

His customers wish him success—so he can serve them better.

The business men who serve him likewise are backing him up.

For, just as Sohio Dealer Jones counts on the quality and popularity of Standard Oil products to help him succeed, so does Standard Oil stake its future on men like him.

That's how it is with American business, small and large. Each needs the other . . . and always will.

Carol Bruce, the 1946 Helen Morgan, dipping into the cuisine Espagnol at El Chico . . . Al Jolson signing programs for the fans at the ball game . . . Lew Parker, the "Front Page" zany, dashing to make his deadline at the Royale . . . Dan Duryea, the blond film menace, looking harmless but far from charmless at Chandler's . . . Edward Everett Horton, as inappropriate to the local late-life scene as Carrie Nation, looking like a wounded deer at Trouville . . . June Allyson and Dick Powell, surrounded by a flying wedge of protectors, making a fast exit through the iron gates of 21 where the autograph fiends stalk their prey.

The Grapevine: Two of Darryl Zanuck's biggest stars have fallen in love and will divorce their respective mates to marry each other. The preliminaries have been discussed in a "civilized" manner, but the situation will remain at status quo for a while longer to protect the release of an important picture. As of last week, all four principals were in different cities.

All Around the Town: Henry Fonda will come East to appear in a play this season . . . Gene Krupa's real heart-twister is Marie Allison of the films. . . . Fall fashions fouled the career of an ambitious young waiter at Monte's. Ladies flocking in with their Autumn chapeaux smothered in ostrich plumes, coq feathers and aigrettes finally forced the frustrated garcon to flee—he's just frightfully allergic to feathers.

Times Square Cuff Notes: Marsha Hunt, emoting on the set of "Carnegie Hall," heard someone applauding her at the end of a scene the other day and looked up to see Gov. Dewey. The Guv even consented to pose for publicity shots with the film belle . . . David Selznick, going out of the Colony door after luncheon, held the hand of pretty young Beatrice Pearson, of "The Voice of the Turtle." A Star Is Born? . . . Dottie Darling, the Carnival showgirl, knows how to throw a restaurant into a panic. She did it at Armando's when she strolled in carrying a monkey on her shoulder . . . Joan Bennett is going to do oodles of shopping here. Arrived with practically nothing in joyful anticipation of the spree.

In the Margin: The matrimonial affairs of Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey are so uncertain that practically all the romance angle is being left out of "The Fabulous Dorseys" . . . The ladies' shoes situation in New York is practically desperate. One Fifth ave. store sent out a fancy brochure showing dozens of shoe models—but they haven't got one of them in stock. Manufacturers just canceled shipments because there is no material . . . Natalie Kalmus, the Technicolor biggie, is experimenting with a television color process due to hit the market before long . . . Many of Van Johnson's youthful fans are irked about the part he's playing in his new flicker, "The Romance of Rosy Ridge." He's a hillbilly in it.

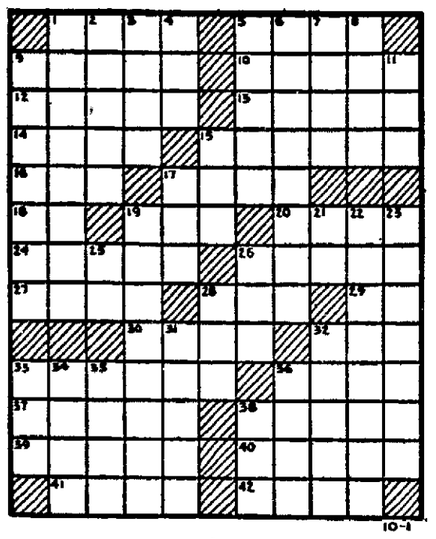
Yesterday's Answer



HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, October 2.

THE exceptional strength of planetary intervention on this day should stimulate and encourage the use of novel, ingenious, original and clever operations to a degree of sensational and revolutionary denouement. In this, public, professional, political or diplomatic, as well as community issues are involved, with promise of commensurate rewards for work well done.

All elements should be shrewdly analyzed and clearly evaluated, lest obscure, even tricky, side issues negative possible spectacular gain, honors and happiness as well. The mind should be keyed to brilliant performance.

Those whose birthday it is stand at the threshold of an exciting, adventurous and probably spectacular year in which some outstanding idea, talent, creative skill or intellectual sagacity—brilliant, novel, ingenious, even startling or dramatic — assure public honors, distinction and prestige, as well as private gain and romantic adventure. But all this thrilling circumstance and bright prospect must be based on reason, good sense and practical performance and not "flash in the pan" or "phoney" bids for public acclaim.

A child born on this day will be brilliantly endowed with exceptional ideas, inspirations or creative talents, promising a gainful, popular and happy career.

CRESTLINE

"Friendship Night," will be observed at the regular meeting of Harmony chapter, Order of Eastern Star this Thursday evening, Oct. 3 at 7:30.

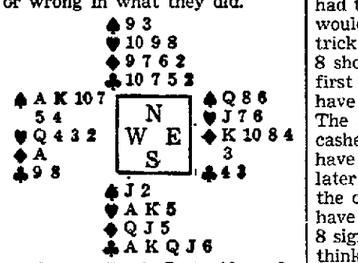
Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

Partners have plenty of difficulty to agree on which is to blame when the declarer makes a contract which could have been beaten by perfect defense. From one player's standpoint, the fault was entirely in something his partner did, or failed to do. And from the post across the table the same attitude prevails. Often even an unbiased kibitzer finds it hard to decide which is right and which wrong, or whether both are right or wrong in what they did.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl	2 ♠	Pass	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	Pass	Dbl

East's double was "on general principles," as he later stated, because North had to keep silent on three turns. West was strong enough to bid twice and he himself was just under enough for a bid.

Beginning right, West scored his diamond A, then led the spade K. Seeing East's 6, he switched to the heart 2, the J forcing the A. The club A and K cleared trumps, and the spade J was led. West won with the A, then found himself end-played. With only major suit cards, a heart would doom his Q to be trickless, so he led a spade, the 7, which was just as bad, as it gave South a ruff and discard. It was trumped in dummy and the heart 5 discarded. After that only one more diamond could be lost, so the contract was made.

East told West that, if he had ducked the spade J, his Q would have won and a heart return would have set the contract. But West asked "Suppose South also had the spade Q, so that my duck would have presented him a trick?" West then told East the 8 should have been played on the first spade lead, then he would have led a low spade to the Q. The diamond K could have been cashed, the next diamond would have been ruffed by West, and a later heart trick would have set the contract two. But could West have been sure to read the spade 8 signal that way? Mightn't West think that if East had three to the Q, he would have raised spades? So mightn't West then have led his spade A to the next trick, plus a third spade, thinking East could over-ruff the dummy, thus giving South a ruff and discard?

Something Extra
There's no doubt—twins are something extra. And there's no doubt, either, about the extra advantages of Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk, milk improved by science to give it these five important advantages:
1. Tastes Richer and Creamier
2. Digests Quicker and Easier
3. Is Smooth and Uniform
4. Improves Cooking and Baking
5. Contains 400 Vitamin D Units
Homogenized Milk has no "cream line", because Homogenization—the scientific process which Isaly's use—distributes the cream particles evenly through the milk, making the last glassful just as delicious and nourishing as the first. With Homogenized Milk, no cream is lost by sticking to the sides of the bottle or cap. And Homogenized Milk will not form a "skin" at the surface when heated. Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk is the milk that gives you all the extras—better taste, easier digestibility, uniform smoothness, added Vitamin D, more wholesome nourishment for everyone in your family.
If you haven't tried this milk with the health "extras," call us now and order a quart or two. The telephone number is 4217-6.
For your added health protection, every quart of Isaly's Milk has double sanitary sealing. First, a tight but easily removed cap in the top of the bottle which may be used as a cover when the bottle is not in use, and second, a fresh, cellophane hood which fits snugly down over the top of the bottle and keeps the pouring rim healthfully clean. Look for the crisp, golden cellophane hood on Isaly's Homogenized Vitamin D Milk.

P. D. Golfers Win N-J Title

P. D. Bar possessed a clear cut victory margin in the 1946 News-Journal "A" Golf league according to official standings released today.

The P. D. quartet took the league title with 62½ points, far outdistancing the field. Gorman-Rupp finished second with 52 followed by Blue Goose with 49½. Identical 48's gave Tucker Furniture and Que Billiards a tie for fourth position.

Defeating Gorman-Rupp, 5 to 0, in the first week, P. D. led the league competition for the entire 18-weeks. The 1946 list of 10 teams was the greatest number ever to participate in the N.J circuit.

In final league matches P. D. defeated Tucker, 4-1; Gorman-Rupp edged Que Billiards, 3-2; Blue Goose beat Orr Typewriter, 4-1; Globe Steel won over Richland Printing, 4-1, and Ideal Billiards nipped Flexible Conveyor, 3-2.

The annual N-J "A" loop golf banquet will be held Saturday at 5 p. m at the Blue Goose tavern. Officers will be elected, prizes awarded and seasonal averages posted.

Tygers and Trojans In First Ten

Ohio's scholastic gridiron situation will be cleared somewhat when the Mansfield Tygers trek to Portsmouth to meet that Ohio river valley team Friday night in the top schoolboy contest of the week.

Portsmouth continues to hold third place in the INS pigskin poll but the Tygers of Coach Paul Snyder advanced from tenth to sixth position by drubbing Sandusky, 55 to 2, here last week. Both aggregations have won three straight.

The Snydermen took the measure of Portsmouth in 1945, 19 to 6. The Trojans and Tygers have met three times on the gridiron with the Mansfield club winning two of the contests.

Cleveland Cathedral Latin and Toledo Waite lead International News Service high school football selections today, but ballots of sports editors participating in the weekly feature began to indicate increased interest in several other schoolboy elevens.

1. Cleveland Cathedral Latin
2. Toledo Waite
3. Portsmouth
4. Canton McKinley
5. Dayton Chaminade
6. Mansfield
7. Massillon
8. Alliance
9. Campbell
10. Lima Central

This week's second poll found no changes in the first four positions, but the field was beginning to close in on the leaders.

Latin was the popular first place choice again after swamping Cleveland Glenville to run its unbeaten string to 28 games. Close behind came Waite, which stormed through with a 33-0 win over its home city rival, Devilbiss.

Portsmouth retained third position despite its first close game of the year, a 20-14 verdict over Springfield eleven that had broken even in two previous starts.

Once beaten Canton McKinley strengthened its claim to fourth ranking by running up a 27-0 victory over Warren, a club that has now lost to three straight ultra-tough opponents.

Below that point, however, the shuffling began. Newark dropped from fifth place clear out of the first ten after defeating Dover only 13-7. Dayton Chaminade, a 33-0 winner over Dayton Kiser, moved up a notch to take over the vacated fifth spot.

Mansfield's 55-2 romp over Sandusky brought it advancement from tenth to sixth position in the scribes' estimates.

Massillon—picked ninth last week although it hadn't won a game—climbed two places. The Tigers achieved their first victory by whipping strong Canton Lincoln, 29-0.

A good darkhorse bet on the strength of its early showing, Alliance neither gained nor lost prestige through its 25-16 defeat of East Liverpool.

Campbell was the only newcomer to the Big Ten, its 19-0 victory over Youngstown Chaney shoving it into ninth ahead of Lima Central. Central's difficulty in edging Cincinnati Western Hills, 19-9, plummeted last week's seventh place team to the bottom of the select list.

Kentucky Star Ruled Ineligible

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Ray Nolting, whose University of Cincinnati team was beaten, 26-7, by Kentucky Saturday night, said today he was not surprised when informed Kentucky Star Ermal Allen had been ruled ineligible by Southeastern Conference officials.

"I sort of figured they'd do that," Nolting commented, when it was pointed out that Allen, a graduate student, had been ruled ineligible before the non-conference Cincinnati game but the ruling was reversed almost immediately afterward.

Allen threw two touchdown passes and generally sparked the Kentucky team to its victory.

TOUCHDOWN TOMMY—Massillon's Tommy James accounted for the first Ohio State TD as the Bucks tied Missouri last Saturday at Columbus, 13 to 13. He skirted end for four yards to score.

Musial, Vernon Cop Big League Swat Titles; Feller, Newhouser Record Most Victories

NEW YORK —(AP)— Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Mickey Vernon of the Washington Senators are the new unofficial batting leaders of the National and American leagues, respectively.

For Musial its an old story since the Card clouter copped the title with a .357 mark in 1943. But for Vernon it is not only his initial championship but the first time he has batted over .300 in his major league career.

The Red Bird star battled Brooklyn's Dixie Walker and Boston's Johnny Hopp for the title until early August when he gained the lead and held it the rest of the way to finish with a .367 average, highest figure in the loop since Ducky Medwick hit .374 for the 1937 Cards.

Musial also led his league in runs scored, 121, hits, 226, doubles, 48 and triples, 19.

Vernon led the American league practically all season and wound up at .353—11 points above Boston's Ted Williams, who finished second at 342

Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers clubbed 16 homers in September to win the home run championship of the majors with 44 round-trippers, six more than Williams got, and 21 more than the 23 hammered in by Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh, the National's leader.

Stolen base laurels were recaptured by Cleveland's George Case who stole 29 bases, while Pistol Pete Reiser of Brooklyn led both loops with 35 steals, including seven to the home plate.

Six 20-game winners were produced by the majors. Hal Newhouser of Detroit and Bob Feller of Cleveland each won 26 games. Dave "Boo" Ferriss won 25, and Spud Chandler of New York and Tex Hughson of Boston copped 20 each.

In the Natinal, Howie Pollet of St. Louis and Johnny Sain of Boston each won 20.

Paul Bixler Has Big Problem; Must Pick Buck Squad for Trip

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Coach Paul Bixler, the Missouri game (Ohio State 13-Missouri 13, and let's not say any more about it, please) wrapped up and put on the shelf, today had a new problem—which of his Ohio State gridders to take on the Southern California trip.

The Missouri game showed up plenty of flaws in the Ohio State football machine and also showed that some of the players originally rated on the top three teams might have to move over for some of the scrubs.

The squad for the flight to Los Angeles will be limited to 36, and selection of those three dozen men occupied a part of yesterday's practice session.

Bixler post-mortemed the Missouri tie with press and radio men yesterday, after he had sceen pictures of the game.

The 15-yard penalties that twice cost the Bucks probable touchdowns were the result of faulty cadence in the quarterbacks' signal-calling, the Ohio State coach explained.

The backs were unable to shift into their second positions in the time given them by the impatient signal-callers, and the result was an illegal shift that Bixler said was called correctly by officials each time.

Contrary to some opinions, the Ohio State blocking was good, except on occasion in the last stages of the game when heat and exhaustion took their toll.

The Ohio state coach said one problem lay in getting the quarterbacks to use a more diversified offense, which he thought was essential against the heavier lines the Buckeyes will meet in almost every remaining game.

Assistant Coach Carroll Widdoes took the floor and gave the lowdown on the Southern California team he watched beat Washington State, 13-7. He described it as a team with a heavy, solid line and tremendous backfield speed.

Only Center Tony Adamle came out of the Missouri game with a serious injury. He received a bruised hip that might keep him idle this week.

Promoter Earl Myers has lined up a battle of hirsute growths for the weekly grunt and groan fuss at the Armory Thursday night.

Ivan Rasputin, the coarse-haired Russian, brings his full beard into contact with Ali Aliba, the Turk terror, who sports a long mustache. They collde in the two-of-three falls main event.

Stocky Knuelson, the Tennessee ruffian, and Ace Abbott, singing cowboy, meet in the one-hour opener at 8.15. Ace plans to bring his "gitter" along and sing a few range ballads from the ring.

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers purchased lefthander Robert Wayne Johnson for 1947 delivery from Newport News of the Piedmont league where he won 16 and lost 7 this season.

Colonels Crush Royals; Clubs Move to Montreal

LOUISVILLE, Ky.— (INS) —The Louisville Colonels hold a 2 to 1 lead in the little world series today as they move to Montreal for a resumption of the best four-out-of-seven games with the Royals, International league champions.

The American Association title holders crushed the Royals last night, 15 to 6, drubbing six Montreal pitchers before 14,000 fans with a barrage of 19 hits.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RACE STARTS OVER

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Throw out 154 games and a 14-8 season edge for St. Louis over Brooklyn and start the real 1946 National league race today as Managers Eddie Dyer and Leo Durocher match wits and strategy in the opener of a three-game tie playoff—the first ever held in major league baseball.

Howie Pollet, the Cardinals' ailing No. 1 hurler, probably holds the key to the situation in the aching muscles of his left side. The slender southpaw has been poison to the Brooks and Dyer's ace-in-the-hole when the going gets tough

Dyer don't know if Pollet, who has been knocked out of the box by Chicago in his last two starts, can take his turn until he lets him warm up in the Sportsman park before the game.

If he's "right," Pollet will pitch and Card supporters who have made their favorites a surprising 13 to 20 choice will breathe more easily. If not, Dyer will fall back on Murry Dickson, a wiry right-hander who has beaten the Dodgers three times and lost once on relief.

There is no key figure holding the fate of the Dodgers' master plan. It is based on Durocher's hunches and uncanny ability to call on the right men at the ripe time. Brimming with confidence, as usual, the Dodger manager has picked Ralph Branca, a 20-year-old collegian from Mt. Vernon, N. Y., to hurl the vital game. This was no wild scheme concocted in the dead of night, for Branca has been extremely effective against the Birds.

Durocher's prize gamble of the year involved Branca in his last start against St. Louis. On Sept. 14 Branca spun a three-hit, 5-0 shutout. It was the kid's first complete game of the year.

Unlike the world series, the players do not share in the receipts of the play-off games, but President Sam Breadon of the Cards announced his players would be paid off for the week on a prorata basis of their season's salary.

Mansfield Sophs Entertain Marion

Mansfield Senior high school sophomors play their first home football game tonight at 7 30 when they meet the Marion Harding reserves under the lights at Stadium field.

Coach Fred Staub's Tyger Cubs defeated the Bellville varsity 21-6, in their only previous 1946 encounter. Students will be admitted on their activity books while adult admission charge is 50 cents.

Staub's probable starting lineup follows: Norbert Shibinsky and Paul Hammond, ends; John Corcoran and Keiser, tackles; Charles Tuttle and Bob Burkhardt, guards; George Russell, center; Paul Ferguson, Bob McKown, Louis Gregorio and Joe Letizia, backs.

Eddie Beverage and Vere Smith will officiate.

Graziano, Zale Rematched

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Rocky Graziano of New York, who signed yesterday for a return match with middleweight champion Tony Zale at Madison Square Garden next March 21, today sought an opponent for a tune-up bout he will fight before the end of 1946.

SUPPORTS OHIO TEACHERS' BID FOR MORE PAY

State Educator Says Higher Living Costs Argue For Levy Passage.

The current agitation for higher salaries for Ohio school teachers has been given impetus by Walton B. Bliss, executive secretary of the Ohio Education association, who deplores the "creeping paralysis" that is affecting education in the state. Bliss says that Ohio teachers have "undernourished pocketbooks."

He urges Ohio's 68 cities, with levies up for endorsement in the fall election, to pass these levies so that school officials may better meet the demand for more pay among their teachers.

Mansfield is one of the 68 cities with a levy up for the approval of voters. A proposed three-mill levy will be placed before voters here.

"Long financially undernourished, Ohio's public school teachers are suffering from pocketbook deficiency aggravated by the rising costs of living," Bliss said. "Half the teachers of Ohio were paid less than $2,010 during the 1945-46 school year and a fourth of them were paid less than $1,644."

The minimum salary in Mansfield for an inexperienced teacher with a bachelor's degree is $1,300; for one with a master's degree it is $1,350.

In addition to the salary schedule, teachers in Mansfield schools have been getting a state bonus of $150 each year for the past three years. This was provided by state legislature during the war years and will run until next July.

In view of the low salary schedule throughout the state, Bliss declared, "This large number of substandard teachers is denying to children the high level of expert teaching service to which they are justly entitled. Thus, we are diluting the standards of competency of tomorrow's citizens."

Among other cities in the state of Mansfield's size asking for passage of school levies are Lorain, Lima and Massillon. Two Crawford county towns, Bucyrus and Galion, also have proposed levies up for a vote.

Accepts Mail For Germany

Mailing of parcels to the French zone of Germany (with the exception of the French sector of Berlin) is now possible, according to a new post office ruling.

Ordinary (unregistered and uninsured) gift parcels not over 11 pounds in weight nor exceeding 72 inches in length and girth, will be accepted for mailing, subject to the same conditions as formerly applied to packages going into the American and British zones of Germany.

Packages must be plainly and conspicuously marked "gift parcel," and the contents and value itemized. Items for "general delivery," will not be accepted, post office officials said.

Only one package per week per sender to the same addressee is permitted, and the contents must be limited to essential items of non-perishable foods, soap and other items.

No writing or printed matter of any kind is permitted in the packages.

EXPLAINS HOW NEW LAW WORKS

Blonston Says Measure to Aid Vets' Families Altered.

Many persons in the Mansfield area have misinterpreted the recent amendment to the Social Security act providing three years of automatic coverage to veterans who served 90 days or more during World War II, Edward P. Blonston, manager of the Social Security office in Mansfield, said today.

"Of the persons who have filed claims or sought information on the amendment since it went into effect some six weeks ago, about half have found that they were not affected," Blonston said.

"The amendment is a measure for survivors only. Under it, no veteran can receive benefits for himself," Blonston emphasized.

The new enactment does not apply to survivors of veterans in the following cases, Blonston added: (1) Veterans of wars other than World War II; (2) veterans who received a dishonorable discharge; (3) veterans who died while still in service, or who died of ailments contracted while in the armed forces; (4) veterans who died more than three years after the date of their discharge.

Immediate potential beneficiaries under the amendment are the survivors of qualified veterans who died between the time of their discharge from World War II and the passage of the amendment, Blonston said.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

It was the leading lawyer of Pyote, Texas, who once was sued himself and cannily decided to handle his own case.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he declaimed, "I know it is an old adage that the lawyer who conducts his own lawsuit hath a fool both for a client and an attorney." He had to rush off to Dallas while the jury was still out, but that night a friend wired him "Old adage unanimously upheld."

A Fort Worth newspaper printed a personal ad that read, "If John Blank, who deserted his wife and baby twenty-one years ago, will return, said baby will knock his block off."

A cub reporter on the same sheet in his first story referred to a "local schoolteacher." The editor advised, "Son always use the name of the city; never use the word 'local'." The next day the youngster covered the operation on a tycoon and reported, "The surgeon used a Fort Worth anaesthetic."

OLD FRIENDS

No better fortune can attend
Than meeting with a long-time friend. —Cousin Egret.

Cousin Egret speaks truly. Every one who has been long from home and has met an old friend in far places will tell you this. Cousin Egret was a long way from home. It is far down in the Sunny South, but here he was up North on the bank of the Big River where Laughing Brook leaves the Green Meadows to flow into it. He was feeling a bit lonesome. His big cousin, Longlegs the Great Blue Heron, would have nothing to do with him. Neither would his smaller cousin, Quawk the Night Heron. He wondered if it was because his coat was all white. Around his home in the Sunny South many dressed in white, but up here he had seen no one all in white. He felt queer, as if every one was staring at him. At home he never had felt out of place because dressed all in white. Up here he did.

Happening to look up in the sky, he saw a black speck against a white cloud. Perhaps, had it not been for that while cloud, he would not have noticed that black speck. It was moving. It moved in a big circle.

"If Ah were home Ah would say that that is one of the Vulture folks, miscalled Buzzards. Yes, suh, that is what Ah would say. Ah don't know who it is, but just seeing him sailing round and round up there makes me homesick. Yes, suh, it makes me homesick," said Cousin Egret, talking to himself because there was no one else for him to talk to.

Perhaps he would feel less homesick if he didn't watch that black speck sailing round and round up there. So for a few minutes he looked everywhere but up. Then the temptation to look up became too great to resist. He just had to look to see if that speck was still there. It wasn't. That is, it was no longer a speck. It had become a big black bird with great, broad wings coming down and already so near that it could be seen that he was bald. There was not a feather on his head, and it was red.

The heart of the big, white, lonesome Heron gave a little jump. That is how it felt anyway. It was a little jump of gladness. It made him do a funny little hop straight up, with big white wings lifted a little. "Ol' Mistah Buzzard!" he cried happily.

And so it was, Ol' Mistah Buzzard the Turkey Vulture. He is called that because his head is red like that of old Tom Gobbler the Turkey, although they are not even distantly related. Then, too, it distinguishes him from a cousin whose head is black.

Ol' Mistah Buzzard lighted on a dead tree close at hand. "Ah knew Ah couldn't be mistaken," he cried. "When Ah looked down and saw that white coat at the edge of the water Ah says to mahse'f it can't be, but it has to be, mah ol' friend Brer Egret. Ah could see yo' were a sho' nuff Heron, and there isn't any Heron just your size who is all white. Yo' are a sight fo' sore eyes. Yes, suh, yo' are a sight fo' sore eyes."

Just then he was joined by Mrs. Buzzard, and she was just as glad to see Egret. "Yo'all are no mo' glad to see me than Ah am to see yo'all, Ah reckon," said Cousin Egret. "What fo' do yo'all come way up here to nest, when yo' really belong down in the Sunny South?"

Ol' Mistah Buzzard looked at Mrs. Buzzard and Mrs. Buzzard looked at Ol' Mistah Buzzard as if they were not sure themselves. "Ah reckon we uns just wanted a change," said Ol' Mistah Buzzard at last.

Mrs. Buzzard nodded. "Ah reckon that was it. We uns like it up here," said she.

"But Ah have noticed that yo' all come back to the Sunny South every winter," said Cousin Egret. "If yo'all like it here, why don't yo'all stay?"

"We uns has to eat, just like other folks, and from what we uns have heard tell, there wouldn't be any food fo' we uns. So we do just what most of the feathered folks do, go where there is food. But it sho' is nice here in summer. It sho' is," said Ol' Mistah Buzzard, and Mrs. Buzzard nodded agreement. "But what brought yo' up here so far from home?" he asked.

"Ah'm vacationing," replied the big white Heron, and this was all he had to say.

The next story: "Alike, Yet Unlike."

NATIONAL JC AIRMEN ELECT ASHLAND MAN

Hartzler's Air Leadership Is Recognized; Becomes Vice Chairman.

ASHLAND—John Hartzler, aviation chairman of the Ashland Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been named vice chairman of the national Jaycee aviation committee, officials announced yesterday.

This honor was bestowed on Hartzler in recognition of his leadership of the local committee which last year won first place in national competition for the best aviation project in cities from 10,000 to 100,000 population.

The prize-winning project included a study of and promotion for a local airport since 1943; Jaycee sponsorship of Pilots, Inc.; organization of a junior and senior Civil Air Patrol; campaigning for a bond issue to finance a local airport, and flight scholarship to CAP cadets.

Hartzler, assistant principal of Ashland high school, is a charter member of the organization. He has been president, secretary, board member, chairman of the aviation committee, the state aviation committee and the state civil identification committee.

He holds a private pilot's license and is ground instructor for veterans studying aviation under the GI "bill of rights" at the local field. Hartzler was instrumental in the foundation of the program to make available flying lessons to city school teachers.

Winchell — On Broadway

EDWIN PAULEY'S poignant report urging aid for the remaining Jews in Germany contained this moving paragraph: "We cannot bring five million dead bodies to life—we cannot breathe the breath of life into the pits of human ash and human bones—we cannot even find the little bodies that once wore the thousands of baby shoes found amongst piles of shoes of every size. But we can take action—and take it now—to make certain that the over one million European Jews who survive the Nazi terror are given a chance to live. The time for talk has long passed—the time for action is long overdue . . . We have saved them from death—but we have not yet given them a chance to live."

Some members of the State Dep't have attempted to suppress that report. They fear that it will "antagonize the Germans" at a time when we are kow-towing to them! That is not just appeasement—it is a crime. Those who attempt to aid murderers by suppressing evidence against them—only make themselves accessories to their crimes.

* * *

W Averell Harriman informed correspondents that he believes most Americans support Byrnes' foreign policy, yet he refused to discuss that policy and added: "U. S. foreign policy in the last analysis is based on public opinion" . . . Trouble is, Mr. Harriman, that the public can't have an opinion on the Byrnes foreign policy unless someone informs the public what that policy is. And the only way the public will learn what our foreign policy represents—is when the leaders publicly discuss it.

An ayem anti-FDR colyumist has been war-dancing around Wallace and wahooing that Wallace's exit means that the members of FDR's administration no longer have any power in the government . . . At the same time headlines screamed about Harriman's appointment . . Harriman was one of the most important members of Roosevelt's administration for many years.

* * *

From R. Churchill's col'm: "The trouble is that most people would prefer to accept any explanation, however improbable, rather than accept the truth which stares us all in the face. It was just the same with Hitler's Germany before the war. Those few who proclaimed the danger of Hitler were denounced as irresponsible warmongers"

Oh, you're just sayin' that because you know it's true.

* * *

The Democratic Party is now cutting its own throat with the stiletto FDR's enemies tried to plunge into his back.

* * *

The War and Navy Departments denied Henry Wallace's charge that some American military leaders are anxious to incite a war . . . But some Washington correspondents claim it is a well-known fact that certain military leaders are trying to provoke a war . . . All of which shouldn't be a surprise to you readers and listeners. You heard me report these things more than six months ago . . . The top antagonist in military circles is none other than General Groves, head of the atomic bomb project.

In short, some people can't see the Trees for The Groves.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—If you will permit me, I will take a cut in the matter of a big, new biography of the late Louis D. Brandeis, by Alpheus Thomas Mason, a professor of politics at Princeton, because I see by the reviews that it runs to 713 pages and that it is almost too formidable for general readers whose interest in Brandeis is not insatiable, as mine certainly ain't.

I have already read one such eulogy, done by Alfred Lief, in 1936, and my incidental acquaintance with Brandeis, cultivated or, I might better say, incurred, in incidental contacts, has created an opinion of which I am rather fond, that he was a poseur and strutter in a role of lofty humility.

As Benjamin Stolberg so nicely described Albert Einstein, Brandeis had an "instinct for modestly backing into the limelight" and if he were up for confirmation for the supreme court today I should give serious consideration to the reasons why those who opposed him did, instead of casting them into hell and stoking the fire with their arguments, as Brandeis' idolators do.

* * *

He did have his moments, however, and it was in one of these that Brandeis opposed the closed shop in these words, cited from Mr. Mason's study: "I think there is no man or body of men whose character will stand absogress in a mood that I judge to be disgust, expressed to me one afterlute power and I should no more think of giving absolute power to unions than I should of giving to capital monopoly power."

* * *

This is about the same thought that Hatton Sumners, of Dallas, the chairman of the judiciary committee of the House of Representatives, now retiring from Connoon early in the war. A subcommittee of the judiciary had just finished a hearing in which it was established that some of the foulest racketeers in our nation were profiteering in the war construction program by operating shakedowns at army and navy camps and air fields and colossal factories through the closed or monopoly shop, under the patronage and protection of the Roosevelt government.

Electricians had been gouged for as much as $300 for "initiation" into a union whose predatory interests came before those of the nation. Carpenters, house-painters and pick-and-shovel men had been robbed by the same process and no defender of this disgusting system had the gall to suggest that the brigands were promoting the "war effort" or had the slightest obligation to the public. Indeed, Roosevelt's supreme court, in a decision a few months ago, held that although they did steal all the money, that was a matter of no public interest but a private affair of each of the thousands of filthy little local rackets implicated in the predatory whole.

Lippmann — Today and Tomorrow

THE JUDGMENT of Nuernberg is not the end but a new beginning—a solemn affirmation that the sovereignty of states is subject to univesal law, higher than the decisions of any government and binding upon all persons everywhere, whatever their titles, their rank, and their local authority.

This law has been found, declared and is being enforced, by the deliberate and conscious and unanimous act of all the governments to which the peoples of the world owe allegiance, and this is the law for them as it is for the German criminals who have been tried and convicted under it.

This law, like all law, may again be defied, evaded, or subverted. But to plan, prepare, and do these things is not a sovereign national right but a criminal act, and anyone who participates in the conspiracy is personally accountable forever after to the organized judgment of mankind. No state can repeal this law, or by the exercise of the sovereign right of veto place itself or its rulers above or beyond this law.

The principle of unanimity still obtains in respect to these matters on which there is as yet no settled and universal law. But in those matters, on those issues, for those acts which have been judged by the tribunal of Nuernberg, there is universal law based on universal consent, interpreted by unanimous judgment, enforced by unanimous action, and established therefore as a precedent which transcends all national rights and privileges that conflict with it.

* * *

Henceforth, the charter of the United Nations is to be construed in accordance with the judgment which, by their considered action, the United Nations have caused to be rendered.

* * *

In all countries men are seeking a new approach to the settlement of the war and the keeping of the peace. They are aware that somehow and somewhere the governments have lost the way they promised and intended to take, and have become entangled in a snarl of vicious contentions.

The fixation of the minds and feelings of men upon the secondary, incidental, and peripheral issues has been profoundly evil consequences. The central issues have become malignant. For more than a year diplomatic relations among the victors have, at the highest level of authority, been in fact suspended.

We have been brought to the idiotic and fantastic condition where the British and American governments have to guess about the policy of Russia by deciphering, as if it were a cross-word puzzle, an interview by Stalin to a British newspaper. Whereas Churchill and Roosevelt insisted on talking with Stalin, even if they had to go to Moscow, Tehran, or Yalta to talk with him. Mr. Attlee and Mr. Truman do not talk with anybody, and Mr. Bevin and Mr. Byrnes have been reduced to talking with M. Molotov.

The fact that they talk only to Molotov is itself the proof that they are not discussing the real issue. And they will not get beyond M. Molotov until they insist on talking about the issues that only Stalin can talk about, that Stalin must talk about. It is quite true, as Field Marshal Smuts has just said, that the heads of states must find a way to talk "man to man." But they will find that way only when they decide to talk about the issues that, because they are vital and compelling, heads of states must talk about.

These issues are now beginning to emerge out of the fog, the dust and the smoke that have obscured them since the death of Roosevelt and the fall of Churchill. They are the future of Germany in Europe, of China and Japan in eastern Asia, and of the strategic balance of power in the Middle East. When diplomatic relations, now suspended at the highest levels, are resumed, these are the questions which will have to be discussed

The new approach that men are asking for would have to consist in approaching these basic conflicts directly, nakedly, and at the highest levels of authority. They have to be approached and seized and forced into discussion and negotiation. They cannot be evaded either by appeasement and retreat or by beating around the bush—while we beat our breasts toughly and rhetorically and pedantically.

The formula which we have forgotten in the making of peace is that a world war can be settled only by men of the highest authority dealing with the main issues. When we return to that elementary formula, the greatness of the issues which are at stake will revive in the minds of men now so frustrated and frightened and bored, the great conceptions of the peace, which the judgment of Nuernberg reflects, and that almost all men everywhere, when they are not diverted, still cherish and yearn for in their hearts.

NEW TRAFFIC PLAN PLACED IN OPERATION

City Tries 'Straight-Through' Idea at West Fourth and Mulberry.

Scheduled to go into operation today at Fourth and Mulberry streets is a new "left turn" system designed to speed the flow of traffic.

Motorists making left turns at the intersection are to keep in the center lane, as indicated by painted lines. Cars going straight through or making right turns are to keep in the right-hand lane.

Parking will be prohibited 50 feet back from the intersection to enable straight-through or right-turn cars to pass autos preparing to make left turns.

Bright yellow lines mark the center lane and the areas in which parking is prohibited. In addition, "Left Turn" is painted in bright yellow, to indicate the center lane.

* * *

May Extend System.

Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals said that if the system proves successful at that intersection it will be extended to others.

He also said that comment he has heard concerning the city's revamped traffic signal system has been "pretty evenly divided."

Lights on downtown signals have been lengthened 10 seconds. They are now on green for 35 seconds and on red for the same time and are on a straight-through basis.

Boals said that the new system is still being tested. "Some motorists who regularly drive in a particular direction, like it; others don't," he said.

Following the presentation, members were entertained by musical selections by a trio consisting of Nancy Twitchell, Joan Twitchell, and Ann Parsons.

A quartet from the Mastersingers club also sang a number of vocal selections for the club. In the quartet were Edward Young, D. G. Schooley, Harlan Weimer, and Charles Freehafer.

The Mastersingers will present their next concert Jan. 27 at John Simpson Junior high school auditorium.

Denver Police Investigate Wild Shooting Affray.

DENVER — (INS) — Denver detectives today sought to piece together details of a wild shooting affray in the famed Ship's tavern of the Brown Palace hotel in which an Idaho doctor was killed and two other patrons wounded.

The dead man was Dr. James K. Mullen, 26, of Pocatello, who had just arrived in Denver to join the faculty of the Colorado University School of Medicine.

Dr. Roy M. Green, president Colorado A. and M. college at Fort Collins, was shot in the shoulder and Philip Van Slyck, 26, of Salt Lake City, was wounded in the hand. Witnesses said the shots were fired by Ronald F. Smith, identified as a 23-year-old former marine and now a policeman at Grand Junction, Colo.

Registration and open house will be from 7:30 to 9:30 Wednesday night. Any employed girl is welcome.

KLAN LINKED TO NAZI BUND

Evidence of Collaboration Before War Found.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Justice department said today it has uncovered evidence establishing links between the Ku Klux Klan and the German-American bund from 1937 to 1941.

An official who has read the evidence said it "definitely proves that the two organizations collaborated to promote racial and religious dissension prior to the war."

He told a reporter that government agents investigating Klan activities ferreted out the evidence of bund-Klan ties.

The department has promised swift prosecution of the Klan if any violations of federal laws are found.

The official said the evidence of collaboration included an affidavit that an assistant bund director stated in 1937 the bund was cooperating with the Klan and "similar organizations" because "our aims are similar in many ways."

Terming these "just a sample" of the evidence of Klan-bund ties, the official said government agents still are investigating the Klan in New York, Michigan, Tennessee, Florida, California, Mississippi and Georgia.

He said "a number of new complaints" of alleged civil rights violations have been received and added:

"These may lead to an extension of the investigation to other states."

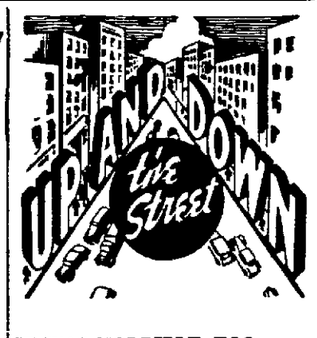
NEARS COMPLETION

City Engineer W. C. Statler said today that Cline avenue cement foundation has been laid and that all of the street probably would be open by mid-week. Although cars will be permitted to drive its entire length then, blacktopping must still be applied.



IT WAS HORRIBLE, TOO—

Although Donald Bernhardt, aged 12, of 303 High street, wasn't one of the runners-up in the N-J Lena the Hyena contest, he submitted an entry which deserves particular mention. With the help of his sister Martha, Donald fashioned a small pencil-sketched doll and put on it for a head a horrifying caricature made from a snapdragon seed pod. It showed an apt ingenuity for mimicry which Donald also displays in his school drawings. Donald is one of 15 children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bernhardt.

LIKE THEIR MILK—

Price hike or no price hike, Mansfielders apparently go for milk in a big way. That's the report by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner. He says that while the national average for milk consumption is one half pint per person, per day, the average in Mansfield is a pint and one half per person, per day. And the quality of local milk is equal to or better than that of most other Ohio communities, Dr. Wild says.

Collectors who want the first day cancellation may send self-addressed envelopes (not more than 10) with cash, money order, or postal note to cover cost of the stamps, to the Postmaster, Santa Fe, N. M. Don't request uncancelled stamps, the post office department urged.

NEW MARITIME WALKOUT HITS OCEAN SHIPS

Power Shortage Threatens Industrial Collapse in Pittsburgh.

(By United Press)

The most serious wave of labor disputes since last spring halted public transportation at Columbus, O., today, threatened Pittsburgh with industrial collapse and tied up shipping in the second nationwide maritime strike within a month.

A new strike threat arose in the motion picture industry, and a walkout of 2,000 employes at eight downtown hotels added to the troubles Pittsburgh was experiencing in the eighth day of its power strike.

These were the major labor developments:

1. The new shiping walkout began shortly after midnight when licensed maritime officers belonged to the CIO Marine Engineers Beneficial Association left their ships in New York harbor.

2. An estimated 60,000 workers were idle in Pittsburgh, many of them in steel and other heavy industries. Losses in business, industry and wages resulting from the power strike mounted toward $125,000,000.

3 Motormen and bus drivers at Columbus struck at midnight, leaving many of the city's 300,000 persons without transportation. Strap-hangers hastily formed share-the-ride plans reminiscent of wartime.

4. A strike against major Hollywood film companies continued, while independent producers were threatened with walkouts by the AFL International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes.

In the shipping strike, negotiations were continuing both at Washington and at San Francisco. But the contracts of three maritime unions — the CIO Marine Engineers, the CIO Longshoremen, and the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots—expired at midnight last night.

Government conciliators at Washington had hoped to avert the strike by negotiating new contracts between east coast and gulf shipowners and the marine engineers and the masters, mates and pilots. The two unions, however, refused to settle with east coast and gulf employers without a settlement with west coast shipowners.

In another shiping dispute, spokesmen for the CIO Longshoremen said negotiations at San Francisco had made progress and would continue. But when 1,000 marine engineers walked out at New York, the longshoremen announced that they, too, were "officially on strike."

Jim's Found That Scouting Can Do a Lot for Mansfield Boys

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of stories on the 11 Red Feather agencies which share funds collected in the Mansfield Community Fund drive.)

* * *

Star Scout Jim Carrigan, 14, likes the Boy Scouts and here are his reasons:

"The Boy Scouts give you a chance to take part in a lot of civic duties and outdoors sports. Scouting teaches you a lot of things you wouldn't learn anywhere else.

"You learn a lot about the woods and its laws, how to camp out; how to prevent accidents; how to save lives; and how to take care of yourself if you're sick or hurt

"Scouting teaches boys to respect a superior officers, and how to be a good sport," Jim went on. "You have the best chance in the world to learn a lot about yourself and the city around you."

Jim's been in scouting only two years, but he's already collected honors more familiar to older Scouts. The Star Scout badge he wears is third down on the list from the rank of Eagle Scout, highest honor given in the organization Other awards he's won are first aid, safety, personal and public health, firemanship and cooking, home repairs and pioneering, swimming and marksmanship and camping.

At Shelby, 200 Junior high school students are being taught the principles of first aid by Rev. R. E. Gayle.

The purpose of the classes, according to Robbins, is to teach students the necessity of preventing accidents and to stress how to prevent further injury in case of accident or sudden illness until the services of a physician can be obtained.

Aggressive War Held 'Supreme Crime'

EXCEPT as it presents to a large part of the world a new conception of the administration of "justice" designed to safeguard rights of the accused, it would appear that much time has been wasted in the long-drawn-out trial of German war criminals in Nuernberg.

Even now, with guilt established to the satisfaction of the four-power international tribunal, the defendants are told of their right of appeal to the Allied Control Council in Berlin.

Proceedings so entirely out of accord with Nazi methods of wholesale slaughter have been obviously mystifying to the ringleaders who have been on trial during the past ten months, and their slow progress toward eventual doom has had an element of grim humor for some of them, notably the notorious Hitler henchman, Hermann Goering, who remarked yesterday: "I did not expect they would go through all this to kill us."

Of outstanding importance, in stating a changed attitude toward the instigators of war, is the tribunal's pronouncement that initiation of war is "the supreme crime," and it may well be that adoption of this principle can be made the basis for United Nations action in preventing any potential aggressor from following the course pursued by Hitlerized Germany in precipitating the second World War.

Sound sense appears in the conclusion that "Hitler could not make aggressive war by himself; he had to have the co-operation of German military leaders, diplomats and business," and that these associates are not absolved from responsibility for their acts.

Carefulness with which the evidence was weighed by those charged with responsibility of deciding the guilt or innocence of the accused men is evidenced by the variation in the verdict, which held six of the twenty-two defendants guilty on all four counts; thirteen on some of the counts, and three innocent of the charges preferred.

Counts in the indictment were: Conspiracy, or a common plan of aggression; crimes against peace; war crimes, and crimes against humanity.

Punishment to be meted out to the individual malefactors, whatever it may be, must be regarded as inconsequential in contrast to the orgy of murder and destruction in which they were central figures during the bloody Hitler regime, when millions of helpless victims were put to death at their behest.

Most important thing to come out of the Nuernberg trial, in which all four of the great Allies acted as a unit, is the appearance of accomplishment of the intent to establish aggressive warfare as an international crime, punishable by such an organization as the United Nations seems destined to become.

High Living Costs Reduce Savings

BANKS over the country are beginning to notice one result of the high cost of living—there's a trend toward let-down of deposits in savings accounts. Through the war, and until recently, a vast amount of surplus money was poured into savings accounts in banks and loan companies, in addition to the billions of dollars that went into government bonds.

Interest on savings was cut down, and in some instances loan companies were so overburdened with idle money that they found it necessary to pay off depositors and close accounts.

Now the curve on the chart is changing. People are still saving, but not at the rate that indicates general financial well-being. Budget columnists, whose mail is a thermometer of family money problems, say that people are not saving as much for the obvious reason that nearly all their income goes for such necessities as food, shelter and clothing.

Discontented Union Members

A MATTER that will be worth checking up on, to see if it is evidencing a trend, is brought to attention in an item in the current issue of Pathfinder News Magazine, a Washington, D. C. publication.

It says: "Union leaders, both CIO and AFL, are worried by the drift of membership to industries not unionized or to plants that are 'open shop,' where workers are not having income seriously cut by continuing strikes and payment of dues."

For some years the movement had been in the opposite direction, accounting for the power gained by unions, but it may now be wondered if the unbridled exercise of power may not be working to detriment of the legitimate purposes of organized labor—possibly to a too far swing in the opposite direction, due to the intolerable practices of some union leaders who disregard public welfare in an effort to serve their own selfish purposes.

Life Among the Little-Known Lolos

THE RECENTLY reported capture of American flyers by the Lolos in southwest China gave many people their first news that China has other people besides the Chinese. In the south-west mountains are several primitive peoples, perhaps China's earliest inhabitants, pushed out of the lowlands by the Chinese.

Besides the Lolos there are the Mosso and the Miao-tsze, short dark people of unknown race. Nominally under Chinese rule, they pay little obedience to their supposed governors and ever raid Chinese territories from time to time. Their languages are somewhat like Chinese but not related. They use a picture-writing known only to the priests of their spirit-worshipping religion.

Those Unfinished Houses

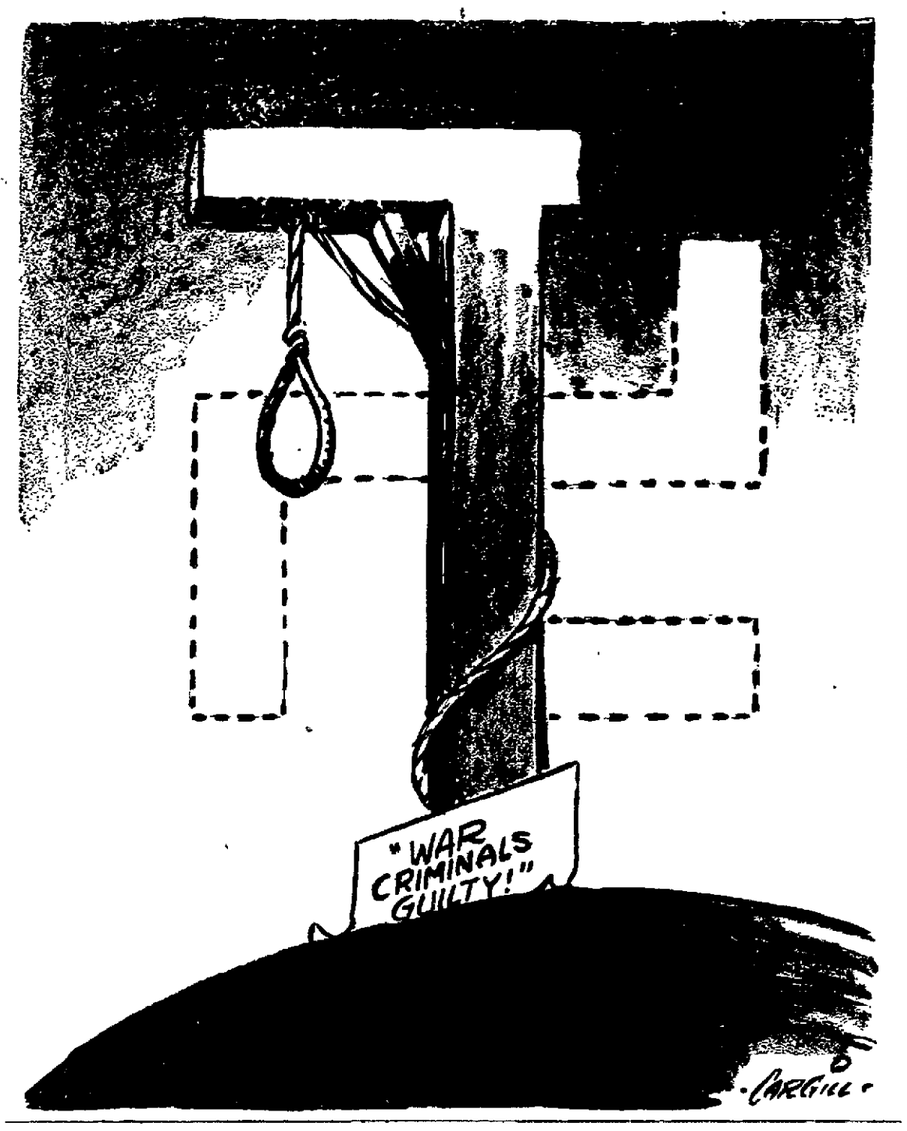
SHORTAGE of building materials has reached a point where every board, every nail, every strip of roofing counts. All over the country are houses partly built, their construction stopped by lack of materials.

Lumber, bricks and millwork in a half finished home do no family any good. In fact, when a house stands with its interior exposed to the weather, floors and walls may be badly damaged by storms.

Wherever local housing authorities can concentrate on the completion of housing units already under way, they will achieve more usable dwelling places for the quantity of materials procured than where they have to start from the beginning.

Now comes the story of a Missouri camp cook who rolled the prize bass of the season in soap powder by mistake for cornmeal—without explaining how there happened to be any soap powder around.

FINAL CHAPTER IN A DREADFUL STORY



Soviet Recovery Is Being Delayed By Indirect Reparations Methods

By RAYMOND MOLEY

A RECENT British estimate puts the number of German prisoners of war at six million. Of these, 3½ million are in the Soviet Union, 1½ million in France, half a million in the British Empire, and most of the remainder in Yugoslavia. There are very few elsewhere.

In 1943 the Soviet government began to claim reparations in manpower. At Yalta, President Roosevelt agreed that it might not be a bad idea to have Germans repair some of the destruction they caused in Russia. At Potsdam, however, the British Labor government opposed compulsory labor, but the main question was left open.

Russia then proceeded to use German prisoners in productive work. Some of the delay in Paris occasioned by Soviet statesmen is, no doubt, because they want to make use of this labor as long as possible.

A good estimate of the value of each prisoner to such a country as Russia is $1,000 a year. This means the creation of a yearly value of $3½ billion, which is probably double the amount that can ever be realized by a clumsy dismantling of German factory equipment.

Moreover, Russia is hiring skilled German workers. Advertisements for engineers, doctors and machinists are openly published in the Russian zone in Germany. A German professor, Kucharsky of the Berlin Technical university, is hiring engineers for the Soviet government. These employes are to be used in research projects in the Crimea.

The London Daily Mail, in a report from the British zone, says that the Soviet is seeking former German military officers, especially those who have technical knowledge of submarines, mines and torpedoes. The famous von Richthofen is named as such a recruit. Two German admirals, Saalwaechter and Witzell, are lecturing in the Russian Maritime academy.

All this indirect business is not so much mischievous as stupid. It illustrates how badly the real interests of Russia are severed by those who are master-minding her affairs.

No one will deny the basic morality involved in compelling Germany to repair some of the damage done to Russia by her aggression. But the great need of the world is peace, in which Russia can recover through the expansion of legitimate and prosperous relations with the whole world.

Moreover, Russia stands to be a substantial beneficiary of a Germany economically restored but militarily impotent.

If the Soviet government is to achieve anything like her five-year plan, she must do so through ample trade with all countries.

It cannot be done by squeezing production out of forlorn war prisoners and a mass of uprooted machinery, much of which is rusting along Russian roads.

It is quite possible that if happy relations had been established between eastern Europe and the rest of the world a year ago, Russia might have had an American loan, plenty of American, British and German technical help and a good deal of profitable trade by now.

Daily Bible Thought

Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin; yet I say unto you, that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.—Matt. 6:28-29.

Well-Fed AFL Chief, Bill Green, Complains About Meat Shortage

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The AF of L's portly president, Bill Green, attended a recent meeting of the president's reconversion advisory committee called to discuss a new wage price formula.

In the course of the meeting, Bill also rose and made a speech—quite a lengthy speech in which he was especially bitter against OPA and price controls. Apparently forgetting how AF of L officials, paid by him, had lobbied vigorously to pass the OPA act, he claimed the country was going to pot because of OPA. While members of the committee twisted and squirmed, he echoed his old enemy—now friend—John L. Lewis in attacking the meat famine.

Green aimed his remarks primarily at Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, a close Roosevelt adviser and long-time friend of labor. Glaring at Mrs. Rosenberg as if she were personally responsible, Green talked on. As he talked, the famine became worse.

Finally, Mrs. Rosenberg could stand it no longer. Looking at Green's rotund waistline, she said:

"What you say may be true, Mr. Green. But you certainly look like you're getting your fair share of the food supply."

Inwardly if not outwardly deflated, Mr. Green sat down. Eric Johnston, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, then arose but was only able to hold the floor a few minutes before Green was on his feet again repeating what he had said, like a worn record. Wearily, Nathaniel Dyke of Arkansas, a public member of the board, solemnly stood up and said:

"You win, Mr. Green. But only because you have more wind than anyone else in this room."

The meeting then adjourned.

Democratic Meat Debate.

Senator Theodore Green of Rhode Island got in some hot licks against the meat packers at the closed-door meeting of the Democratic executive committee last week.

"If the government can take over coal mines on strike, I don't see why it cannot take over these big packing companies," Green told Democratic bigwigs. "They are on strike in a sense against the consumers in helping to keep meat off the market, and the public should have some protection against them."

The Rhode Islander demanded that the justice department begin an immediate investigation to determine the financial interest of the big packers in cattle ranches, and to ascertain if there is any conspiracy between the packers and stock raisers in keeping meat off the market.

At the luncheon, ex-Governor Ed Rivers of Georgia put Hannegan on the spot regarding Democratic national committee sponsorship of Henry Wallace's speeches. Rivers made it clear he didn't want Wallace to do any official speaking.

Hannegan, however, stood his ground.

"The Democratic national committee," he said, "will assist any state or county organization in arranging for Henry Wallace's appearance during the campaign. We don't send out speakers unless we're asked to. So if anybody asks for Wallace, we'll send him out."

"Does that go for Claude Pepper, too?" asked Senator Green.

"Yes," Hannegan replied.

"Is this the same procedure you are following with all other speakers?" Green asked.

"Yes," replied Hannegan.

Note—Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, and Gov. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma were the hottest on the meat situation during the closed-door meeting. Kelly said he didn't care who was responsible but he knew the Democrats were going to lose a lot of votes if someone didn't do something about the meat situation in a hurry. Governor Kerr favored dropping meat controls until after the election while Flynn agreed with Mayor Kelly.

Capital Chaff.

Devout Catholic Phil Murray has had some interesting experiences with the Russians. Murray has been entertaining Russian trade unionists, finds them bursting with ideas for keeping the peace. Murray is trying to get more Russians to visit the USA and vice versa . . . President Truman is urging Jimmy Byrnes to take a vacation after he returns from Paris . . . Mrs. Truman refused to use a White House car while vacationing in Missouri. She drove her own car all around Independence, gave her chauffeur a vacation.

Tipping Nuisance.

A significant and somewhat revolutionary step has been taken by the Pere Marquette Railway in the elimination of tipping for services aboard diners. It is a movement the general public would welcome.

Tipping has become a high nuisance. It is a European importation. There is no economic reason why it should be necessary, especially now since minimum wage laws prevail.

Human nature being what it is, there is doubtless the tendency to give better service in anticipation of a tip, and a patron is inclined to recompense good service by tipping, but more and more restaurants are beginning to discourage the practice, and are paying wages deemed adequate without the addition of tips.—Ohio State Journal.

As Others See It

Preparedness.

A Ridgecrest, Calif., man is cutting his third set of teeth. They will come in handy when meat is available again. — Minneapolis Star-Journal.

That Silent Rebuke.

Late in the party there comes that time, known to every married man, when a wife can say more with an eyebrow than an orator does in an hour.—Detroit News.

ODD FACT.

In over a hundred recordings, it was discovered that mosquitoes have a language all their own—a song for danger, another for mating, a cry to express anger; but none of these sounds is audible to the human ear.

An Easterner Feels "Lure of the West."

CHICAGO — Why is it that when you wait here, poised for a trip westward there is always the adventurous thrill of getting ready to enter a new and different land?

The telephone rang in the morning. My wife calling from Washington.

"I got your letter. I knew you were hopping off tonight. So I called."

"Hopping off!" That tells it.

And yet it's more than that.

You just get on a train and go westward, over the same sort of country for awhile. Rolling into the same sort of towns, seeing the same sort of people. And, if you are one of those hurry-up fellows and take a plane, why it's all done in a few hours.

But there's more than that, at least for a fellow who's a railroader at heart. This is the w: 'o a new and bright land so low—and I won't let it be any different ever.

Perhaps it's something that runs deep in the blood of an Easterner—meaning by that one who was born and nurtured east of our Great River. That includes my own South. It's something that goes back to pioneering and pioneer days, covered wagons, Indians and cowboys.

For it is pure adventure to me, and I confess it proudly.

On this trip I had planned to follow my nose, moving from here to there, and also to take a chance, like any newspaper reporter. But I lost my nerve when I thought about railroad reservations. At least that was the excuse. But it was probably that other thing, down in my bones, that led me into the Consolidated ticket office here, the desire to look over train schedules and imagine my way westward.

Once, some years ago, during the depression, I went into one of the railroad stations here and found a fellow who didn't have anything else to do—nobody was riding trains in those days—and he patiently worked out my itinerary. You didn't have to worry ahead then about Pullman reservations. They were exclusive, only for newspaper reporters on expense account and a few others.

I remember that experience, but I hesitated a bit to try it again. Railroad people are so busy these days, and anyhow I'm a timid person about bothering busy people. So I went a little shyly up to the Milwaukee road's counter. I found a man not busy at the moment, and sort of blundered into what I wanted.

But Elmer Moll was a railroader, like myself, and a most kind and considerate man. So together for quite a while we had our fun and our release into adventure. Pouring over the schedules we worked out an itinerary, and he arranged for my sleeping accommodations.

It's so refreshing these days to find a courteous, considerate and patient person. In so many places we seem to have lost those traits during the war. Everybody tired and snapping, at nerves' end. I hope we get them back.

So we arranged my way to the Pacific coast and back and I'm sure he saw what I did.

Those endless flat plains stretching away, with the beef cattle (now so timid about dying for OPA) standing away to the horizon. And—for I'm going through South Dakota—the jack rabbits that pose pertly on their haunches and watch the train go by. And the Bad Lands with their gaunt treeless humps marching along like starved elephants.

And the first glimpse of the Rockies, shining far away like something from a childhood dream of fairyland. And the dark mounds of the Cascades in the northwest, like big, furry bears ambling by, and the view of the Golden Gate from the hills about San Francisco.

It's nice to be a boy again, lying on your stomach before the fire, reading about pioneers and the Indians.

Let there always be a West, a Promised Land.

Acute Housing Shortage Prevails Everywhere.

STOCKHOLM — One condition apparently prevails the world over, whether in Moscow, Stockholm, New York or just plain Podunk. That is the terrible shortage of housing which, for millions of people, means not merely inconvenience but also a sense of insecurity and uncertainty.

It is one of the most devastating after effects of war and one of the reasons why revolutions follow in the wake of war.

While some construction went on here in Sweden during the war, with no destruction such as occurred in most of the rest of Europe, nevertheless thousands of families are constantly seeking a place to live.

The birth-rate is soaring here as it is almost everywhere else. The scarcity of building materials and of skilled labor is acute. A large number of men were kept mobilized during the war, and now it is necessary to keep an extra labor force in the forests to cut wood, since Sweden is receiving less than half of the amount of coal imported before the war.

One result of the housing shortage is the pitiful advertisements that appear in all newspapers. Young couples appeal for a room so that they can be married. Families advertise that they are about to be put out onto the street and ask householders to let them rent a basement or storeroom.

The shortage might have been less acute if Sweden had not sent portable houses to the devastated countries of Europe. These went to France, Norway and elsewhere.

Along with the shortage of apartments and houses, goes an acute shortage of hotel rooms. A stream of visitors besieges every first-class hotel in Europe. After the long, dark night of war, Europeans are eager to move about again and to have a little sample of pleasure and ease once more.

There is an almost feverish desire to spend money. Most prices here have been tightly controlled. But the prices on art and on antiques have been unrestricted. The result has been an extraordinary boom in paintings, both old and new, and in antiques of every kind.

Prices of ordinary goods are not low, and that is particularly true for Americans buying in dollars, devalued recently by 14 per cent as a result of a decree of the Swedish government. Inflationary pressure appears to be growing stronger as the government watches closely the trend in the USA.

Government policy sometimes results in strange contradictions. Industrialists would like to sell a far greater volume of wood pulp in America, where the scarcity of newsprint is so acute, but the government has advised wood-pulp companies that they may sell only a fixed amount at the world price and that anything sold above that amount will be subject to an excise tax taking most of the profits. The reason, of course, is to prevent an accumulation of further inflationary dollar balances.

It's difficult for importers to buy goods they want from the USA, although it's true that you see on the streets of Stockholm almost more new American cars than you do in the average American city.

The news of our strikes is followed almost as closely as it is at home, since the strikes mean that there will be fewer goods to import.

When you are in the middle of Europe, you know how thorough was the ruin of war. But even from the perspective of this northern peninsula, relatively so untouched, you can see how perilously close to a breakdown the European system is. Slowly and painfully, an effort is being made to put it together again. Sweden has contributed to that effort and will continue to contribute.
